Act to Incorporate the Town of Gettysburg.

SEC. 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the town of Gettysburg, in the County of Adams, shall be, and the same is hereby erected into a Borough, which shall be called, "The Borough of Gettysburg," bounded and limited as follows, to-wit: Beginning at the mouth of Culp's run and running from thence a straight line, to the South East corner of Thomas Bradon's out-lot; thence a straight line to the South East corner of lot number twenty of the Reverend Alexander Dobbin's small lots; thence to the South West corner of the same; thence across the Emmitsburg road to the South East corner of the said Reverend Alexander Dobbin's spring lots; thence so as to include the said spring lots to the South West corner of William Buchanan's tanyard-lot; thence a straight line to the South East corner of Newcomer's and Hutchinson's out-lot, being number two in the plan of Alexander Cobean's out-lots; thence along the different courses on the line between the Reverend Alexander Dobbin's land and the said out-lots to a line of James Scott's land; thence by the outside lines of the said out-lots to the Hagerstown road; thence by lands of Alexander Boyd and others along the line of Alexander Cobean's land to the North West corner thereof; thence a straight line to the junction of the Chambersburg and Carlisle roads; thence to the mouth of Henry Weaver's spring run, and from thence down Rock Creek to the place of beginning.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid: That it shall and may be lawful for the freeholders resident in said borough and householders renting property of the yearly value of thirteen dollars and thirty-three cents, who have resided within the said borough for one whole year immediately preceding being citizens of this commonwealth, to meet at the court house in the said borough, on the first Tuesday in May in each and every year, and then and there elect by ballot, between the hours of twelve and six of the clock in the same day, one reputable freeholder, who shall be entitled to vote as aforesaid, who shall be styled "The burgess of said borough;" and five reputable freeholders who shall be entitled to vote as aforesaid to be a town-council, one reputable freeholder as high constable, and two reputable freeholders to act as street and road commissioners; but previously to such election, the electors shall choose by ballot two reputable citizens to be judges, one inspector and two clerks of said election, which said election of judges, inspector and clerks, shall be held by the high constable of said borough and two reputable citizens of said borough, whom he shall choose as assistants between the hours of nine and eleven o'clock of the day appointed for the election of the burgess, &c.; and the said judges, inspectors and clerks, before they enter upon the duties of their respective offices, shall take an oath or affirmation before any justice of the peace for said county, to perform the same with fidelity; and after the said election shall be closed shall declare the persons having the greatest number of votes to be duly elected, whereupon duplicate certificates thereof shall be signed by the said judges, one of which shall be transmitted to each of the persons elected, and the other filed among the records of the corporation; and in case of death, resignation, removal or refusal to accept of any of the said offices, the town-council shall appoint a reputable freeholder qualified as aforesaid to supply such vacancy.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That from and after the first Tuesday in May next the burgess and town-council duly elected as aforesaid, and their successors, shall be one body politic and corporate in law, by the name and style of "The Burgess and Town-Council of the Borough of Gettysburg," and shall have perpetual succession, and the said burgess and town-council and their successors shall be capable in law to have, get, receive, purchase, hold and possess goods and chattels, lands and tenements, rents, liberties, jurisdictions, franchises and hereditaments, to them and their successors, in fee-simple or other wise, not exceeding the yearly value of five thousand dollars and also to give, grant, sell, let and assign the same lands, tenements, hereditaments and rents, by the name and style aforesaid, they shall be capable in law to sue and be sued, plead and be impleaded, in any of the courts of this commonwealth, in all manner of actions whatsoever, and to have and use one common seal, and the same, from time to time, at their will to change and alter.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid; That if any person duly elected as burgess, member of the town council, high constable or street and road commissioner as aforesaid, and having received notice thereof as aforesaid, shall refuse or neglect to take upon himself the execution of the office to which he shall have been elected, every person so refusing, or neglecting shall forfeit and pay the sum of twenty dollars, which fine and all other fines and forfeitures incurred and made payable in pursuance of this act, or the bye-laws and ordinances of the town council, shall be for the use of said corporation.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid: That the burgess, town-council, high constable, and street and road commissioners, and each of them, before entering upon the duties of their respective offices, shall take an oath or affirmation before any justice of the peace of said county, to support the constitution of the United States and of this State, and to execute the duties of their respective offices with fidelity; and the certificates of such oaths or affirmations shall be filed among the records of said corporation.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid: That it shall and may be lawful for the town-council to meet as often as occasion may require, and to enact such bye-laws, and make such rules, regulations and ordinances, as shall be determined by a majority of them, necessary to promote the peace, good order, benefit and advantage of the said borough; particularly providing for the regulation of the market, streets, alleys and highways, within the same; they shall have power to assess, apportion and appropriate such taxes as shall be determined by a majority of them, necessary for carrying the rules and ordi-

SEC. 7. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid: That the burgess elected and qualified, agreeably to this act, is hereby authorized and empowered to issue his precept, as often as occasion may require, directed by the high constable, or in case of his inability to act, to some other fit person commanding him to collect all taxes assessed, and fines and forfeitures imposed by this act, or by the ordinances and regulations of the corporation, and to cause the same to be paid over to the treasurer; and the said burgess is hereby authorized to carry into effect all bye-laws enacted by the said town-council, he shall have jurisdiction in all disputes between the corporation and individuals arising under the bye-laws, he shall be a conservator of the peace within the borough, and have power to arrest or bind to good behavior, imprison rioters and other breakers of the peace, award process, to commit to prison, and make calendars of the prisoners by him committed, and the same to return together with such recognizances and examinations by him taken, to the next court of quarter sessions for the county of Adams, there to be proceeded on as the case may require, and whatever else may be necessary for the well-ordering and governing of said borough; Provided, That all precepts issued for the collection of taxes, fines or forfeitures, shall be of equal force and effect with executions issued by justices of the peace, but of no other force and effect.

SEC. 8. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid: That it shall be the duty of the town-clerk, to attend all the meetings of the town-council, when assembled on business of the corporation, and perform the duty of a clerk thereto, and keep and preserve the common seal and records of the corporation, and be answerable for the same, and also for the faithful discharge of the duties which may be enjoined upon him by virtue of this act, or of the bye-laws, rules and regulations of the corporation, whose attestation, with the seal of the corporation, shall be good evidence of the act or thing so certified.

SEC. 9. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid: That the treasurer shall give his bond with approved security conditioned for the faithful discharge of the duties of the office, and for the safe delivery of all moneys, books and accounts appertaining thereto into the hands of his successor.

SEC. 10. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid: That the street commissioners, treasurer, constable and clerk of the market, as well as other officers which may be appointed by the corporation or council, shall render their accounts to the town-council once in every year, for settlement; and the said accounts being settled and adjusted accordingly, shall be forthwith published by the said council, showing particularly the amount of taxes laid and collected and of the expenditures.

SEC. 11. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid: That it shall be the duty of the high constable to give notice of annual elections of the said borough, by setting up advertisements in four of the most public places within the same, at least ten days previous thereto; he shall attend and see that the same is opened at the time, and in the manner directed by this act; Provided, That it shall be the duty of the constable of Cumberland township, to publish and superintend the elections to be held on the first Tuesday in May next, as herein before directed.

SEC. 12. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid: That the inhabitants of said borough, and all persons holding property therein, (paupers supported by the said borough only excepted,) shall be competent witnesses in all actions arising under this act or the bye-laws and ordinances of said corporation.

SEC. 13. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid: That the inhabitants of said borough shall elect a petit constable, two overseers of the poor, an inspector for the general election, assessor, and assistant assessors of county taxes, for the said borough, at such times and under like regulations as are directed by law in other townships within this commonwealth, which said petit constable, overseers of the poor, inspector, assessor and assistant inspector so elected, shall have, use and exercise all and every the powers, rights and privileges and be subject to the same penalties and forfeitures within the said borough respectively, which are lawfully used, had, exercised, and which are to be suffered by and imposed on the like officers of the several townships aforesaid.

SEC. 14. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid: That if any person or persons shall think him, her or themselves aggrieved by anything done in pursuance of this act, he, she or they may appeal to the next court of quarter sessions to be held for the proper county, upon giving security according to law, to prosecute his, her or their appeal with effect, and the court having taken such order therein as shall seem to them just and reasonable, the same shall be conclusive against all parties.

Court House

A ROSARY OF MEMORIES

OF GETTYSBURG THIRTY YEARS BEFORE THE WAR.

Days of the Old Court House, Market House and Log School House.

MR. EDITOR: I beg leave to present to your readers of today a few of my recollections of Gettysburg, as it was thirty years before the battle. I was born in that part of the three-story brick house on the S. W. corner of Baltimore street and the Public Square fronting on the Square and looking toward the old Court House. This building was erected by my maternal grandfather, John McConaughy, in 1817. He was admitted to practice law just one hundred years ago. My father, Moses McLean, was a law student in his office in the same building, and he married the oldest daughter of his preceptor.

The old Court House was very different from any public building erected since the war. The Judge's bench was on the Carlisle street side and there were large pillars supporting the gallery, something like the old St. John's Church in Richmond, Va., in which Patrick Henry made his famous speech in the House of Burgesses before the Revolutionary War, his closing words being "Give me liberty or give me death." The jury rooms were in the second story. The first President Judge whom I can recollect was John Reed of Carlisle.

The public offices were on the N. E. corner of the Square where the store of G. W. Weaver & Son is now. The office of the Prothonotary was in the corner room, that of the Register and Recorder and Clerk of the Courts was next to it, on the Square. The County Commissioners' office was in the corner room of the second floor.

A market house stood on the east side of the Court House. There were no meat shops in town. The butchers, notably Nicholas Codori and James Pierce, had their stalls in the market house and would take orders for meat. In court weeks and on public occasions Pap Brigeal had a table in the market house supplied with hard boiled eggs, ginger bread and small beer.

The corner room on Carlisle street of the McClellan House was occupied as a general store by my grandfather, William McClellan, and afterwards by John Fahnestock, the father of Mrs. Col. C. H. Buehler. There was an office on the east side of the hotel occupied by Thaddeus Stevens, Esq., attorney at law, afterwards by James Dobbins, Esq., attorney at law, and which later became the den of Col. John H. McClellan.

The three-story brick house on the S. E. corner of the Square and York street was a hotel kept by Anthony B. Kurtz, the father of Mrs. Amos Eckert.

The S. E. corner of Square and Baltimore street was kept as a store by Sam Witherow, afterwards by Bob McSherry, with old Hugh Scott as clerk.

The S. W. corner on Baltimore street was kept as a general store by George Arnold, the S. W. corner on Chambersburg street by John Sell as a hardware store, and the N. W. corner was the Smith store, afterwards Boyer's, Miss Eliza Smith and her brother Robert, president of the bank, living in the house, the site of which is now Amos Eckert's. Ephraim and Robert Martin, tailors, occupied the frame building still standing in the corner. John Stevenson, father of the late John M. Stevenson, carried on a store in the N. W. corner of Square and Carlisle street. David Kendlehart occupied what is now Miss Eva Danner's music room and parlor as a shoemaker shop.

Hal Reed, gay and merry Hal, a son of Judge Reed, had for his office what was John McConaughy's law office and as you entered you would find a large placard with the instructive directions, "Over at Bob McSherry's or Dave Kendlehart's," showing that Hal's practice was by no means burdensome or likely to bring on nervous prostration. He afterwards went to St. Paul, Minn., and came within one vote of being elected a Democratic U. S. Senator.

Moses McLean had his law office

High Street Public School

where George Stock's cigar store is and where I studied my lessons in the evening by the light of a tallow dip requiring frequent snuffing, and used a goose quill pen for writing. Daniel M. Smyser had his law office where the post office was afterwards kept by George Geyer and what is now the Italian fruit store. James M. Cooper, afterwards a U. S. Senator and General in the War of the Rebellion, resided and had his law office in what was afterwards the Neely building, now part of the Weaver store. David McConaughy had his office for a while in what was the office of his father, John McConaughy, afterwards in what is now the Quimby residence on Chambersburg street.

Where the present Court House now stands was a row of brick buildings, three on Baltimore street and two on Middle street, owned by John Barrett, father of Mrs. Sarah B. King. The corner one was occupied by Barrett family. The next on Baltimore street by Dr. Charles Berluchey, a practicing physician and a Democratic postmaster. The Doctor had been a soldier of Napoleon in his wars and his speech was affected by a bullet shot through his cheeks. Miss Nancy Miller kept a boarding house, particularly for students in the house over the store now kept by George W. Spangler. Another Democratic postmaster was William Bell, who had his office in the building now of Charles E. Stahle, Esq.

In this three decade period Gettysburg was noted for its manufacture of carriages and Lutheran preachers. Long strings of new carriages, covered with muslin would wind their way out of town, down into Maryland and Virginia and further South to supply the well-to-do Southerners with pleasure vehicles, the business affording work for numerous hands of woodworkers, blacksmiths, trimmers and painters and also platers, Mr. Robert D. Armor being a survivor of this latter class, whilst merchants sold the materials and supplies. The principal of these were Samuel Fahnestock and David Ziegler and Danner & Ziegler.

The students on Seminary Hill were trained by Dr. Hazellus, Dr. Schmucker and others, and sent all over the country to minister to Lutheran churches. I write chiefly of what occurred before the time of railroads and certainly before the era of battlefield guides.

The hotels were the Gettys Tavern on York street, long known as the "Globe," first kept by the original proprietor of the town, General James Gettys, afterwards by William Gillespie, then by his son-in-law, Harvey D. Wattles, Charles Will, Samuel Wolf, et al.

The Franklin House, kept by William McClellan, Sr., from and to which ran the old stages between York and Gettysburg, affording thus an outlet for travel to and from Philadelphia. The stages had a boot in the rear for passengers' trunks and baggage, and the driver cracking his whip over his public eye.

Lashell's Tavern stood where Mr. Duncan's office and Mrs. William H. Wieman's building now are. It was afterwards kept by Gourley, John Yeatts, Henry Ferry, Hugh M. Craig and others.

The Eagle Hotel was kept by James A. Thompson, and a stage line ran from it to Harrisburg and one to Chambersburg.

There was also a hotel kept by Mrs.

Winroth, at one time a temperance house, now the City Hotel.

There were two wagon taverns, one at the junction of the Baltimore turnpike and the Emmitsburg road, kept by Conrad Snyder in his time, with the large surrounding yard for wagons, now the Battlefield Hotel, the other was on the south side of Chambersburg street about where Jerome Schwartz's store is, which was kept by Dittlerline. This had also a yard for the big wagons.

I recollect these turnpike schooners carrying large companies of robust German emigrants, men, women and children, who had landed in Baltimore and took this means of conveyance to Pittsburg, where they could find boats for points further west, and by their thrift and industry improve and beautify our glorious land of the free.

We had the martial spirit manifested more strikingly than at present. There were three companies entirely distinct. The Old Gettysburg Guards, commanded by Capt. Daniel M. Smyser, with the negro fifer and drummers dressed in scarlet. The Gettysburg Troop, commanded by Capt. William McCurdy, afterwards by his son Capt. Robert McCurdy, with Hill McCreary as Lieutenant. These troopers wore a large Roman helmet with long horse hair plumes. I recollect of seeing these helmets stored in one of the upper rooms of the old court house. Then there was a company of Mountain Rangers commanded by Capt. Scott. Their uniform was green, the blouse being skirted with fringe after the style of frontier scouts. A leading feature of their tactics and in which they excelled, was swift running. They were fine specimens of vigorous, athletic young manhood. The fires of the Revolution had not burnt out in the hearts of the people and their love of country and readiness to defend her, whenever an occasion might call for them, were cherished and nurtured. Later Gen. James Reed, who had been a Regular Army officer, one of our lawyers, and a half brother of Hal, commanded for a while the Independent Blues.

Some of our churches have changed location. The Presbyterian stood near the P. & R. station on the west side of North Washington street, with its surrounding graveyard. The introduction of lard lamps in the church, in the place of candles for light, when Dr. David McConaughy was pastor, was considered a notable occasion, and a special sermon was preached by him from the text, Genesis 1:3, "And God said let there be light, and there was light." The Roman Catholic was on the west side of South Washington street. It had a high pulpit and its seating capacity was small. The first Priest I can recall was Father Dougherty. St. James Lutheran and the German Reformed were a union church, where the Reformed church now is. It had a high pulpit with a staircase leading to it, and galleries and two bells, which seemed never to be so happy after they were separated. Father Benjamin Keller, the good old Lutheran pastor, was one of the most polite men who ever lived in our community. He would raise his hat to every man, woman and child he met and spread the sunshine of his smile. He called two of his sons after two great Apostles, Peter Paul and Paul Peter.

The only colored church was a log one on Long Lane, with old Uncle Charlie Pearson in the Amen corner.

The school houses were one story buildings, except the stone one, which stood about where the present school building is on High street, nearly opposite the Jail. There was one at the junction of the Mummasburg turnpike and the Harrisburg road, this side of the run, the McCurdy lot being part of the play ground. My grandfather, William McClellan, taught in this building. I have some recollection of passing under his rod, as an illustration of his impartiality. Entertainments were some times held in this school room, there being no public hall for the purpose.

There was a brick school house on the south side of East Middle street in which Harvey D. Sweeney taught. He was somewhat stern and of quick temper. There was afterwards adjoining this building on the east, a sorghum mill operated by Henry Utz. Billie Clark, an Irishman, taught in the High street school, roasted his potatoes in the school room stove and gave the girls and boys a gay May First, near Spangler's Spring, with the May Pole and May Queen and merry dance. Oh these were joyous days! Sometimes there would be ballets passing containing the heart's utterances, such as,

The rose is red,
The violet is blue,
Sugar is sweet
And so are you.

Young loves fair dream!

There was also a brick school house on S. W. corner of High and Washington streets. And then the good old Irish lady, Miss Matilda Scallan, had her A B C school in a one story log building on the west side of Carlisle street, which stands, but has been weatherboarded. It is about opposite Mr. Butt's residence. The Utz family lived in it at one time.

Of the old native born people, the last child of John McConaughy died last Sunday, after celebrating her 87th birthday last Thursday, Mrs. Elizabeth Stoeber, whose sweet gentle life was one constant, quiet undertone of peace and praise. One of the oldest surviving natives of Gettysburg, perhaps the oldest, is Dr. Alexander Speer McClean, of Springfield, Mass., the only surviving child of my grandfather, Hon. William McClean, who had been one of the associate judges of our courts.

We had but one bank, with its dignified, courtly old Cashier John B. McPherson and Teller Col. John McClellan. There was no rush or hurry or crowd there. Col. McClellan was as many living know, a fearless man. A blazing turpentine ball had been thrown up and fell on the roof of the old court house, when quick as a flash the Col. hurried up to the cupola, jumped out on the steep roof and kicked the ball off, thus saving the building from fire at the risk of his life. His fearless ascension in Wise's baloon in the play ground of the old school house at the junction of the Mummasburg and Harrisburg roads, is a matter of history. He was somewhat like Napoleon in his features and possessed some of his dash.

TORTURING PAIN.

Half This Man's Sufferings Would Have Killed Many a Person, But Doan's Cured Him.

Thousands of grateful people are telling every day how Doan's Kidney Pills cured them of distressing and dangerous kidney and bladder troubles.

Yet other thousands are suffering every day from these same ills. Why? They are either very negligent or very skeptical. Neglect of kidney disorders leads to dropsy, diabetes, Bright's disease and other fatal diseases.

Sincere, honest testimony like the following should convince every skeptic.

A. C. Sprague, stock dealer, of Normal, Ill., writes: "For two whole years I was doing nothing but buying medicines to cure my kidney troubles. I do not think that any man ever suffered as I did and lived. The pain in my back was so bad that I could not sleep at night. I could not ride a horse and sometimes was unable even to ride in a car. My condition was critical when I sent for Doan's Kidney Pills. I used three boxes and they cured me. Now I can go anywhere and do as much as anybody. I sleep well and feel no discomfort at all."

A. C. SPRAGUE.

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Sprague will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price, fifty cents per box.

GETTYSBURG-COLLEGE TOWN

SEMINARY WAS ESTABLISHED
IN 1826.

The College Was Organized in 1832
Public Schools Meade High School Catholic School.

Gettysburg of to-day can be presented from many points of view and one as much in evidence as any other is that it is a College Town.

Seminary.

The oldest educational institution in the borough is the Lutheran Theological Seminary on Seminary Ridge. It was established by the General Synod in 1826.

For many years the institution consisted of the Seminary building and two Professor's houses with some thirty five acres of ground.

Dr. S. S. Schmucker, a man always prominent in everything pertaining to the advancement of this community, was the first Professor in Seminary.

For many years the Faculty consisted of three members. Following Dr. Schmucker, Jas. A. Brown, D. D., L. L. D., Charles A. Hay, D. D., and E. J. Wolf, D. D., L. L. D., made the institution a power throughout the Lutheran world, a position sustained at every point by the coming with Rev. Milton Valentine, D. D., L. L. D., at the head.

The benefactions to the institution growing development began in 1850 with erection of the new building, containing a fine proof library, chapel, recitation rooms and rooms for students.

The old building was remodeled and thoroughly repaired at the same time. The buildings were heated from a central plant and two Professor houses were erected. The additions and changes were made at a cost of $95,000.

The Faculty of the Seminary to-day is a very strong one. Rev. J. A. Simons, D. D., Rev. J. W. Richard, D. D., L. L. D., Rev. T. C. Billheimer, D. D., Rev. Dr. Luther Kuhlman, D. D., and Rev. Coover, D. D., and will maintain the prestige of the institution in the coming years.

The course of instruction covers three years and the students in attendance fluctuates between forty and fifty.

The general endowment of the institution is near $200,000.

From the Seminary have gone a large proportion of the ministers of the Lutheran churches. Presidents and Professors within the bounds of the General Synod.

It has also furnished a large proportion of the missionaries of the Lutheran church of this country in the foreign field.

Jennie Wade House

College.

Gettysburg College was founded necessary soon after the Seminary was established in order to prepare young men for theological study. It was chartered April 7, 1832 and formally organized July 1, of the same year. Work was begun in November of the same year with five professors. S. S. Schmucker, D. D., E. L. Hazeltin, D. D., H. L. Baugher, M. Jacobs and J. H. Marsden.

Dr. Schmucker was the head of the institution for two years. In 1834 Prof. C. P. Krauth was elected the first President of college, and held the position until his resignation in 1870. H. L. Baugher, D. D., was the second President of College and held the position until his death in 1898.

M. Valentine D. D., in latter year was chosen the third President of College and held the position until resigning in 1884 to become the head of the Seminary.

H. W. McKnight, D. D., was elected the fifth President and held the position until 1904 when the sixth and present President was chosen, Rev. Samuel G. Hefelbower, D. D.

From five Professors the institution has grown to a corps of ten professors in College and three in the Preparatory Department.

The personnel of the Faculty to-day are

Rev. Samuel G. Hefelbower, D. D., President and William Bittinger, Professor of Intellectual and Moral Science.

Rev. Philip M. Bickle, Ph. D. Dean, and Pearson Professor of the Latin Language and Literature.

John A. Himes, Litt. D., Graeff Professor of English Literature and Political Science.

Edward S. Breidenbaugh, Sc. D., Ockershausen Professor of Chemistry and Mineralogy.

Geo. D. Stahley, M. D., Dr. Charles

H. Graff Professor of Physical Culture and Hygiene.

Henry B. Nixon, Ph. D., Professor of Mathematics and Astronomy.

John O. Egan, Ph. D., Amanda Rupert Strong Professor of English Bible.

Rev. Oscar G. Klinger, Franklin Professor of the Greek Language and Literature.

Charles E. Dryden, Professor of the German Language and Literature and Instructor in French.

C. B. Stover, A. M., Assistant in Chemistry.

Rev. Chas. H. Huber, Principal of the Preparatory Department and Harry A. Lantz and Charles C. Storrick, tutors in same department.

In the development of the College has been associated a large number of citizens of the town, giving of their time and means toward the advancement of the institution.

The institution that had its beginning in the Academy on High street and for many years located in two buildings, Pennsylvania Hall and the Museum, has grown into a plant of nine buildings, three Professor houses and four fraternity halls on campus.

The beautiful old building familiar to so many students was erected in 1836-1838.

The Linnean Hall, used for the museum collection for years and later converted into a gymnasium was built in 1846-1847.

In 1872 a frame building was erected for a gymnasium and in 1890 was converted in a chemical laboratory.

The observatory was built in 1875 and fitted with a glass of 6 1/2 inches.

The great material development of the College came during the Presidency of Dr. McKnight. He devoted himself to the material development of the College and it was greatly needed at the time. Too much credit cannot be given him for what he accomplished for the institution.

Recitation Hall was erected in 1888-1889 at a cost of nearly $100,000.

Col. John P. Brua made a gift of Brua Memorial Chapel, erected in 1889-1890 as a memorial to his parents.

South College with accommodations for fifty students was erected in 1897.

A boiler house was erected supplying all the college buildings with steam for heating purposes.

There has been on the campus for many years the President's House and a double house for Professors.

Four Greek Letter Fraternities have built chapter halls on the campus. Phi Kappa Psi, Phi Gamma Delta, Sigma Chi and Phi Delta Theta. The Alpha Tau Omega completed a chapter house near the entrance to the campus about a year ago.

The endowment of Gettysburg College is less than that of the Seminary, though its needs are much greater.

Over 250 students attended College in the last scholastic year and the institution affords the opportunity of an education at a minimum of expense. It is such an institution as should appeal to the rich men of the country as able to do an incalculable amount of good in giving the opportunity of an education at a minimum of expense.

The plant is here. It needs at least a half million dollars and with this sum would take up its march with the procession.

The Preparatory department on Carlisle street was erected in 1898 and the name of Stevens' Hall given to the building by reason of a gift of $500 by the late Stevens to the building fund.

Other Schools.

Gettysburg has had other educational institutions besides those named. The Gettysburg Academy, after being abandoned by the College, was conducted as a girls' school for years, first by Mrs. Eyster and the last time so used by Miss Mary Montfort, now Mrs. Melchoir.

Misses Mary and Catharine Lachey donated the ground in 1850 for the Gettysburg Female Academy on East High street and a one story building was erected by public subscription. The first teacher was Rev. J. H. Marsden. Miss Mary McClellan conducted a flourishing school in the building for years. Miss Luella McAllister now occupies building with a school for little ones.

Herman Haupt, later General Haupt in the Civil War, opened a school about 1840 in his residence on Haupt's Hill, now the home of Mrs. J. O. Blocher.

Public School.

The free school system established by Act of Assembly in 1834, won confidence and approval soon after system was put into execution. Gettysburg was one of the seventeen districts that voted to accept the free school system in 1834. School houses followed.

In 1857 the Public School building on High street was erected and all the free schools of the town united under one roof. There were eight rooms in the building. A grade system was adopted early and pupils promoted from one grade to another until they had finished the course.

The old building, well preserved and well cared for, is the subject of fond recollections of many men and women who went to school there. The boys and girls who trooped up High street, who played games in the yards, who were into all kinds of mischief, seem like a legion and many there are who call the inspirations received there blessed.

The building in the course of forty years was crowded. The children of the town had become more numerous and the demand for room was imperative.

Meade High School.

In 1886 the School Board went to the western end of town and erected Meade High School, Merville E. Stallsmith being the contractor.

In 1897 the building was occupied and High School grade established. Prof. J. D. Hunter being the first principal of same.

The pupils of the public school number almost 600 in Gettysburg today.

In Meade High School there are six teachers. Prof. Wm. I. Book, principal, and Misses Helen L. Cope and Rose E. Plank assistants in the High School and Misses Anna M. Hake, Lizzie B. Rummel and Jane F. Shields, teachers of A. B and C Grammar, respectively.

In the Public School on High street there are six teachers. Misses Ida E. Sheds, Hattie B. McGrew, Mary E. Wible, Sadie A. Schriver, Elmira Ruff and Rachel M. Scott. Mrs. Katie K. Witherow presides over the colored public school.

St. Francis Xavier School.

In 1877 Rev. Father J. A. Boll established a parochial school. This school soon outgrew a frame structure in rear of the parochial residence.

The needs of the school in time development the erection of Xavier Hall, where a large and flourishing school is conducted by Sisters of Charity under the name of St. Francis Xavier School. Xavier Hall was built in 1888.

100 YEARS IN BRIEF OUTLINE

EPOCHS OF DEVELOPMENT—THE LOST INDUSTRIES.

Turnpike — Railroad Building — County Fair and Battle-field Periods.

The tale of the last hundred years is another story, as Kipling would say, and a story upon which chapter after chapter could be written.

The decision that Gettysburg should be the county seat was followed by an epoch of building, over 60 buildings being erected in a few years. The Court House was erected in the Center Square. Business men of the day put up buildings around the square. A jail was built. In the first score of years the first building at the Almshouse was put up. Churches and homes were also added to the county seat.

Gettysburg was hardly created before the era of turnpike building began. Gettysburg was on the highway between Philadelphia and Pittsburg and was the junction of another turnpike to Baltimore.

The building of the pikes developed the taverns and inns. Gettysburg became a famous stopping place and nearly every square had a tavern or inn. They were different from the hotels of today.

A necessary part of a wagon inn was a big yard, usually paved with cobblestones, into which the big Conestoga wagons could be driven and sheltered. Sometimes the wagons would be used by the emigrants to live in, sometimes the inns gave a night's lodging.

The wagoners were a picturesque feature of that epoch. Perhaps his team was one of six horses and over each horse was a half hoop to which several bells were fastened. The advent of a wagon could be heard ringing afar off.

Everything was carried in the Conestoga wagons, boxes, barrels, coal and over the end board often could be seen a row of eyes belonging to the emigrants destined to develop the great west land.

The teamster often rode the saddle horse, or he would stretch himself on the lazy board, or he would walk the hills.

The stage coach was just as picturesque mode of travel, with its big belly into which one could disappear and be rolled and jolted over the long stretches of pike.

The Gettysburg Water Company came into existence in 1823 and the first method of distributing the spring water was primitive, through wooden pipe, and the remains of one of these old wooden pipes was dug up during the past year.

Later the reservoir on Stratton St. was built and iron pipe substituted for the wooden ones.

When the railroad building epoch struck the country, Gettysburg had many hopes which failed to materialize. It looked in the thirties as though the Pennsylvania railroad might follow the turnpike road and Gettysburg would be on its main line. The Gettysburg branch of the Pennsylvania railroad was incorporated.

Thaddeus Stevens worked hard to get a railroad built through Gettysburg to his iron works in the mountains and much work was done on a road bed, which was caricatured in those days as beginning nowhere and ending in a hole in the ground—a tunnel in the mountains.

It was late in the fifties, after a score of years in which a railroad had been talked about that the first railroad was completed to this place. The first train arrived July 1, 1858, and it came under the name of Hanover Junction, Hanover and Gettysburg railroad.

The first half century of existence of the town was marked with a fame of carriage building plants. When this industry was at its height, Gettysburg was undoubtedly building more carriages than any other community in the country.

Nearly every one in the town was interested in the carriage building industries. The stores kept certain supplies needed and there was plenty of work in all the branches.

The carriage plant of David Little was one of the largest and that of William Hoffman a good second to it. There were numerous other establishments, those of Leonard Stough, Wm. Graham, Danner & Ziegler and others.

The various branches of the business required separate buildings and a carriage plant was an imposing business concern.

There was the blacksmith shop in which the iron work was made and tires put on wheels.

In the cabinet making shop the bodies of the carriages were made and built.

Then they went to the trimming shops, where the canvas covers were made and stretched over the tops.

The paint shop was near at hand in which they were finished. The business required a silversmith shop in which the silver plating for the carriages was done. Robt. D. Armor, one of our oldest citizens, for many years conducted the silversmith shop in one of the establishments.

The war broke up the business for the town and one by one the shops ceased until today there is but one shop run, that of Harry Troxel.

It was a sight to see a float of carriages leave Gettysburg. They were not taken out by train, or knocked down in the Conestoga wagons. The finished carriage in a neat cover of muslin was hitched one behind the other, as many as a pair of horses could pull and these floats would start southward for a market. The work of a season would go away in the floats and the return of those in charge would be awaited anxiously for wages and profits were tied up in them. When the money arrived in town it meant good times.

The carriage making business with its many branches is not the only one that has disappeared in the one hundred years. At one time the making of hats was quite an extensive business in Gettysburg.

Wm. Paxton was engaged in the making of hats, so also was Smith McCreary, Samuel Ziegler and others. Not a better remains and there hasn't been one in the place for many years.

The lace weaving was an industry of the past. Robert Sheals, the oldest native born citizen of the borough, was among the last to be engaged in this business.

A number of tanneries flourished during the century and all but one have disappeared. Those last to disappear were the Winebrenner tannery down in Sleepy Hollow, the Rupp tannery on Stratton street, opposite St. James Lutheran Church and the Gilbert tannery along the railroad. There were older ones that had disappeared before those mentioned.

A spinning wheel factory was started soon after the borough was incorporated. A large pottery was doing a good business at that time. Among the last of the old potteries to be operated was the Menchey pottery. A sugar cane mill was operated for a number of years by Henry Utz. Chair making was quite a business of the town before the war. The town had its full quota of good cabinet makers, shoemakers and other expert workmen.

The Gas Company commenced business about 1880.

Four years of Civil War passed over the land and Gettysburg had become a name known around the world. Here the greatest Anglo-Saxon armies that ever waged war met and Gettysburg was the beginning of the end of the issue that determined that the Union must forever remain indissoluble.

The battlefield epoch is the name of the period of time the town entered nearly 43 years ago and in which it still goes forward and is destined to go forward perhaps for ages to come.

The great battle, the creation of the National Cemetery, the organization of the Gettysburg Battlefield Memorial Association have developed this epoch. It fittingly led up to a Battlefield Commission maintained by the United States, with an ultimate object in view of the Gettysburg National Military Park.

Before the battlefield epoch got in full swing there was a County Fair era, beginning after the war and lasting a number of years. There were races, good horses, fat cattle, prize hogs, poultry, etc.

There was the house in which the big pumpkin was exhibited, or biggest cabbage, or largest cucumber, or big yam.

There was the old Agricultural Hall, holding the main exhibit in needle work, knitting, preserves, jellies and jams, bread, biscuits and cake.

The Adams County Fair was a picnic looked forward to from year to year and talked about for weeks afterwards. County Fairs however seem to be a thing of the past.

The intellectual development of Gettysburg began long before the town was chartered. Away back in 1776 Alexander Dobbin was conducting the first classical school west of the Susquehanna River.

The County had no sooner been created than Pennsylvania was asked and appropriated $2000 for the establishment of the Gettysburg Academy. The building at corner of Washington and High Streets, now known as Linwood was erected. Samuel Ramsey, of Dickinson College was supposed to be the first teacher. In 1820 Rev. David

The Reduction is Sweeping

The Reason We want to convert the remainder of our winter stock into cash. It's good level headed business to do so, even though it means a loss to us. Not a garment has been disturbed. The mark-down price on the price tag tells its own story.

The Proof Seeing is believing, therefore the only thing to do is to come and see. If we can not make good our claims, say "Good Day," and walk out. We mean business—put us to test.

MISSIONARY RIDGE.

How the Scene of a Terrible Battle
Originally Got Its Name.

Stretching for miles along the eastern border of the city, picturesque and pleasing to view is Missionary ridge.
How well that name is known from the hemlocks of Maine to the flowers of Florida, and yet how different from its name are the associates one gives it when it is pronounced! In history it is recorded as being the scene of one of the fiercest conflicts of the civil war, but to the people who know the origin of the name it is a monument to the memory of a band of devoted, self sacrificing Christian men who, braving the hardships of emigration not for the love of gain, but to help their fellow men, built the Brainerd mission on the picturesque heights known by the name of Missionary ridge.

It was in 1817 that the Rev. Cyrus Kingsbury, Amosworth F. Bunt and the Rev. John Vail first viewed the site of their mission. They were sent here by the American board of commissioners for foreign missions, and the same board had provided for the erection of a mission, including school buildings and a home for the missionaries. But the contractors failed in their contract, and the missionaries were left without money and without even a shelter. But by energetic efforts they created a mis-

HISTORY MAKERS.

Fifteen of the Most Decisive Battles of the World.

The fifteen decisive battles of the world from the fifth century before Christ to the beginning of the nineteenth century of the present era, as given by the Historian Cressy, are as follows:

The battle of Marathon, in which the Persian hosts were defeated by the Greeks under Miltiades, B. C. 490.

The defeat of the Athenians at Syracuse, B. C. 413.

The battle of Arbela, in which the Persians under Darius were defeated by the invading Greeks under Alexander the Great, B. C. 331.

The battle of Metarrus, in which the Carthaginian forces under Hasdrubal were overthrown by the Romans, B. C.
207.

Victory of the German tribes under Arminius over the Roman legions under Varus, A. D. 9. (The battle was fought in what is now the province of Lippe, Germany, near the source of the River Emis)

Battle of Chulens, where Attila the Terrible, king of the Huns, was repulsed by the Romans under Aetius,
A. D. 451.

Battle of Tours, in which the Saracen Turks invading western Europe were sion school and built a mill on the banks of Chickamunga creek. The mill race, nearly a mile long, is still visible.

The mill was purchased by Philamon Bird in 1852. He tore down the small structure and built what is now known as Bird's mill.

On May 27, 1819, the president of the United States, James Monroe, appeared at the door of the mission unannounced.
He was accompanied by General Gaines. Although surprised by his visit, the missionaries were ready to receive him, and he complimented them on their work and in glowing terms praised the beautiful location of the mission. The Brainerd mission was used until the Indians left. It did an immense amount of good, and at one time there were more than 500 Indian children being taught beneath its roof.

The Lord's supper was observed for the last time on Aug. 19, 1868.

In the old mission cemetery east of the ridge, overgrown with weeds and forgotten by almost everybody, is a little monument on which are the following words:

"Here lie the remains of Samuel Worcester, D. D., pastor of the Tabernacle church, Salem, Mass., first secretary of the American board of commissioners for foreign missions, born 1770; died June 7, 1821." Chattanooga Times.

utterly overthrown by the Franks under Charles Martel, A. D. 732.

Battle of Hastings, by which William the Conqueror became the ruler of England, Oct. 14, 1066.

Victory of the French under Joan of Arc over the English at Orleans, April 29, 1429.

Defeat of the Spanish armada by the English naval force, July 29 and 30, 1588.

Battle of Blenheim, in which the French and Bavarians were defeated by the allied armies of Great Britain and Holland under the Duke of Marlborough, Aug. 2, 1701.

Battle of Poltava, the Swedish army under Charles XII, defeated the Russians under Peter the Great, July 8, 1709.

Victory of the American army under General Gates over the British under General Burgoyne, at Saratoga, Oct.
17, 1777.

Battle of Valmy, where the allied armies of Prussia and Austria were defeated by the French under Marshal Kellermann, Sept. 20, 1792.

Battle of Waterloo, the allied forces of the British and Prussians defeated the French under Napoleon, the final overthrow of the great commander,
June 18, 1815.

Letter to Councilman Oyer.

Gainsboro, Pa.

The police are finding us out. Officer L. H. Pinney of Erie, Pa. painted his house Devoe, perhaps two or three years ago the tale don't tell when the painter objected, but Pinney insisted.

Two neighbors of Pinney's have painted since: one lead-and-oil, the other some other paint, don't know what.

But officer Pinney lives in the nicest painted house of the three. The rest of the story we don't know, what it cost the three to paint. We can guess about half for officer Pinney.

Yours Truly,

F. W. Devoe & Co.

P. S.—Thos. J. Wuebrenner sells our paint.

ALLEMAN'S STORE NEWS

Will Our Farmer Friends Get Wise?

It requires some extra effort to farm intelligently and get the most out of a crop after it has been produced. That it pays to use the CREAM SEPARATOR, MANURE SPREADER, CORN GRINDER, GASOLINE ENGINE, and other modern Implements, there is no question.

The "Success" Manure Spreader

is excellent by none. It fills every requirement and we can sell it to the farmer at such a reasonable price that considering the time and labor saved it will more than pay itself before he knows it.

J. I. CASE EDGE DROP CORN PLANTER. "Half the Crop is in the Drop."

This planter is so simple in operation and so accurate that by actual test it has dropped nearly 300 hills of 3 grains each without a skip, and the corn was not specially selected.

J. I. CASE CHECK ROW EDGE DROP CORN PLANTER

possesses all the good points known to the art. This planter is not an experiment, but has stood the practical test of field use and planted thousands of acres in a manner entirely satisfactory to many farmers. We are positive that any farmer who will try this planter will pronounce it superior to any other he ever used. We guarantee them to be satisfactory.

In addition to the above we handle the well-known Spangler Corn Planter, the Allbright Steel Beam Riding and Walking Cultivators, Pin and Spring Brake, Land Rollers, Steel and Wood, in two and three parts; the original Perry Spring-tooth Harrow and all kinds of Lever Harrows; and three, five and seven-tooth Cultivators.

Our full line of Machinery has been selected on the same principle. The wise farmer will come here and see our before he buys either at a sale or from any other dealer, as there is more satisfaction in buying a guaranteed piece of machinery than to buy a second-hand implement.

HARROWS, CULTIVATORS, MOWERS, DEERING BINDERS, RAKES, ETC.,

Repairs of any of these implements can be obtained either out of our stock or on short notice from the factory.

THE STUDEBAKER WAGON

which we handle exclusively, is the best farm wagon made.

HARNESS

of all kinds, Heavy Farm Harness, Double Harness, etc. We have a special set of Single Harness with Nickel Mounting which we want to introduce in this county and for this season only we have made the price $8.99. You will find this harness to be all that we claim for it, a good durable well-finished set of harness.

PITTSBURG PERFECT FENCE

FARM PROFITS:

Every rod of good fence on your farm helps to cheapen the cost of your hogs, bees, sheep and horses.

The better and greater the quantity of good fence on the farm the higher the price per acre.

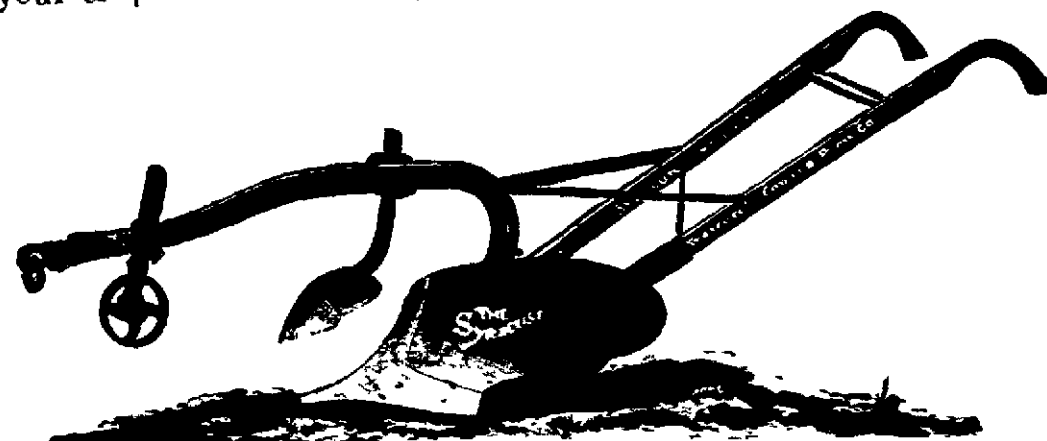

If you do not raise stock, the good fence protects your crops and insures largest possible returns.

Thousands of investors are making fortunes by buying up so-called "run-down" farms, putting on a few buildings and good fences, then selling them for improved up-to-date farms. Good fences, well built, pay bigger dividends than good barns and good houses.

Pittsburg Perfect Fence beats them all. We are the agents for it in Adams county.
